CHAPTER ONE

THE MYSTERIOUS STONE

Once there lived a jeweler named Lily, who lived in New York City. She was in her twenties and had beautiful brown eyes, dark skin, and black hair.

One day while Lily was walking home, she felt something hit her on the head. She looked around curiously. She looked up and then she looked down. She was just about to give up and go home when she saw a pretty little stone. It was not like any of the stones she had ever seen and she had seen a lot of stones, rocks, and jewels. The stone was really interesting. It was a deep red on one side, but when she turned the stone over it is was a beautiful pure white. She decided to bring the stone home and see if any one knew what the stone was, why it fell from the sky, and where it came from.

CHAPTER # TWO

THE LAB

On her way to work the next day Lily stopped by the laboratory to see Professor Jake. She decided that if anyone knew what and where the stone came from it was Professor Jake. When Lily walked into the room she was greeted by test tubes, science posters, and tons experiments the lab was positively eerie “I’m here” quivered Lily.

She was wondering who in the world would work in a place like this, but would want to work in a place like this. Many times the town had offered to give the Professor money to fix up his lab, but the professor had always turned down the offer. Lily had always kept to herself. Personally Lily thought that if the professor wanted to work in a place that was dark and spooky he could, but then again... well she had no clue how spooky his lab was. She had never actually been in the lab. Finally the professor came out of the inky darkness. “Why hello!” boomed Professor Jake. “What brings you here?”

“I came to see if you knew about this really weird stone I found” replied Lily.

“OK I don’t know if I will be any help, if a jeweler doesn’t know I doubt I will be any help,” said Jake.

“WOW!” exclaimed the professor after he had carefully examined the stone. “There is only two places this stone could of come from..... Mars or the Moon!”

“What?” yelled Lily, “you mean that the stone fell from the sky and then hit me on the head?”

“Well, pretty much,” grumbled Professor Jake,
“But, but, how?”

Lily questioned. She didn’t want to believe Jake but at the same time she had no clue what else could have happened.

“So, do you know anything else about the stone?” asked Lily.

“Well, not really,” was the answer, “The only way you could learn any more is visit.....”

“Visit where?” Lily asked.

“Why to outer space of course!” was the answer!

“No way” Lily said.

‘There is not a chance that you are going to get me on a space ship and then go to Mars. That is impossible. Everyone knows it is impossible.’

“Remember Lily, it is 5012, anything can happen.”
coaxed Jake.

“Oh ok I guess,” Lily sounded unsure.

“Well, what are you waiting for? Let’s go, go, go, go!”
Jake was very excited. “I have all of the right friends in all of the right places!”

“We can’t just leave, we need to pack,” Lily protested.

“Not yet we need to go shopping!” Jake argued.

“Oh, ok, I guess,” Lily wasn’t so sure she trusted Jake, but what else could she do?

Chapter #3

The Space Ship

They went to the space port to find a perfect space ship for their journey. They finally found the best space ship. The next day they were ready. The spaceship was white with blue and red stripes down the side. It was shaped like a tall rocket 210 feet tall. They climbed into base of it and started up the stairs inside. There was a chamber in the very front with all of the controls.

Then they got ready for blast off. “Are you ready?” Lily asked Jake.

“I don’t know. Are you?”

“Sort of,” Just then the rocket blasted off.....
