Matthew had woken up at 10:00 am and he was four hours late for work. Matthew had gotten ready for work and broke into a sprint. There was a drop of sweat coming from his forehead. He saw the giant diner, it had a big sign with bolded letters saying, "Bobs candy store" the blue windows shined in the sunlight and one of the letters was hanging from the sign.

Matthew saw Jessica his boss at the candy store, she was glaring at him and yelled "Where are your pants?!"

Matthew looked down and saw that he had no pants on, but he didn't mind he was just staring at his shoe. Matthew saw a sticky note on his shoe it had doodles of many mythical places. Suddenly Matthew and Jessica were compelled, almost pushed against their will. Matthew stated, "Let's find those emeralds and get me some pants."

Matthew and Jessica set out for their first stop The Dusty Cliffs of Zordon. [By the way Matthew has his pants on] It was a long treacherous journey to the cliffs. Zordon was a mystical snake like creature that was killed by a warrior named Floater. When Zordon died he dropped an emerald that Floater didn't notice. Matthew and Jessica stared at each other in the middle of the path to the cliffs. Matthew stared at Jessica's luscious brown hair shimmering in the red orange sunset. Jessica slapped Matthew and snapped out of her trance. Matthew put his hands on Jessica's shoulders and said in a soothing voice, "It's going to be ok." After Matthews soothing words Jessica snapped right into the trance once again.

It was now night they had made it to the cliffs. The shimmering rocks on the cliffs shined like stars in a dark abyss. The two felt as if they were being watched by a being of darkness. They saw the first emerald it was brown and had exactly 6 sides. They were getting closer to the object but it seemed like it was getting farther away. Finally they reached the tip of the cliff and there was a strange man. Matthew tapped the man on the shoulder. The man flung his long blonde hair around and said, "Hello my name is Raymond welcome to my cliffs."

Raymond was a short handsome man with a soothing voice. Jessica's eyes turned into hearts and started going back and forth. "Are you ok, do we need a doctor?" wondered Matthew.

Raymond stared at Jessica and handed his backpack to Matthew. Matthew looked inside and found a strange orb it was a reddish green sphere and it was glowing. The sphere was shaking, it was glowing even lighter, Matthew's hand was turning green and.
